WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—A momentous six-point program for marshaling the nation's latent buying power into commercial channels today was laid before the American people with the unified endorsement of President Hoover and political captains.
It included liberalization of the government's own discount restrictions to permit acceptance of certain classes of industrial securities now ineligible; creation of a $500,000,000 corporation by private bankers to handle the frozen paper of insolvent banks and supply some cash soon to hard-pressed depositors; and expansion of the federal land bank system to provide more adequate credit accommodations for agriculture.

They did it, and got their little with more to come, probably. Mr.

Storey declared the regular divid-

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Oct. 7.— Dignitaries of the nation came today to Englewood, a hushed and grief-stricken community, to pay a nation's tribute at the bier of Dwight W. Morrow.

The resolution was approved by unanimous vote of council members.
Final action on the issue, following which bonds will be sold, will, in all probability, be taken at council's next meeting, Tuesday, October 20, when an ordinance authorizing the issue is to be submitted to the group.

mitted to city council Tuesday night. It was signed by 20 property owners.

Dr. Pierce, who is a past president of the Ohio federation of Women's clubs, is a candidate for second vice president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, the election to be held at the biennial convention in Seattle, Wash., next June. Dr. Pierce is vice chairman of the department of American home in the general federation.

Placed before a colorful bi-partisan conference of congressional leaders last night at the White House the administration's domestic plan won their support in principle. While congressional action will be required eventually to carry the program to completion no special session is contemplated.
Oppose Extension
The President failed, however, to gain sanction for him to discuss with Premier Laval of France, on the latter's visit to Washington this month, extension beyond next June of the inter-governmental debt moratorium. In one of the flurries of opposition which gave the chief executive an insight into congressional floor debate, he was told that any discussion of this kind with the French premier would be on his own responsibility.

Cheerfulness was born of President Hoover's meeting with congressmen of both parties, to discuss remedies for the depression.
Speculation as to topics to be discussed at the president's meeting will cease with today's newspapers.
When this was written yesterday afternoon it was believed that the plan was to set up a national "finance control board" such as we had in the war, with the idea of fortifying banks and helping them

Both Hallahan and Walberg, in a southpaw duel, could scarcely expect to improve upon the exhibition of Burleigh Grimes gave when he held the A's to two hits, and the masterful work of Earnshaw yesterday in blanking the Cards 3 to 0, with only two hits, both of them by the youthful hitting and base running hero of the series, the irrepressible John "Pepper" Martin.

The service at First Presbyterian church at three o'clock this afternoon was for the public, especially the Englewood neighbors among whom Dwight Whitney Morrow was a friend and champion for 26 years.
The time of burial was not made known. The family requested that there be no intrusion during the interment at Brookside cemetery.

Members of the Perry township board of trustees approved final legislation providing for the issue of $800 in bonds for the creation of a poor relief fund at their meeting in the trustees' office, South Broadway, last night.

The project will be placed on the 1932 spring street improvement program.
L. R. Cobb, chairman of the finance committee, reported that an ordinance will be submitted to council at the October 20 meeting for the purchase of a new police automobile. The car will be purchased at an estimated cost of $500, Cobb said.

Both women discussed the child welfare conference in Washington, which they had attended.
It was pointed out in these reports that "the children of the depression are just as important as the children of prosperity and that American civilization cannot spare any of the children, although some of them are handicapped for life."

Secretary Lamont, as chairman of the president's conference on home construction and ownership, headed those invited to meet the White House to devise more ways of easing credit to allow increased building.

INTEREST IN GOVERNMENT

Agitation to broaden the income tax base by lowering personal exemptions is justified in theory by the argument that it gives the "small" taxpayers thus affected a direct interest in their government. It will be recalled that Senator Bingham of Connecticut has favored the imposition of "nuisance" taxes for a similar reason—to make taxpayers realize that the government costs money.

The first income tax under the 16th amendment allowed a personal exemption of $3,000 for an unmarried person and $4,000 for a married person. No additional exemption for children or other dependents was allowed. That was in 1913. More "small" taxpayers were made to realize that they had a direct interest in the government in 1917 when the exemptions were lowered to $1,000 for a single person and $2,000 for a married person. In addition, $200 was allowed for each dependent. Incidentally, this was an interesting recognition of the fact that two people cannot live as cheaply as one, which appeared to be the case when the first income tax was drawn.

In 1921, the exemptions were raised again. By 1924, the single person's exemption was $1,000 and the married person's $2,500. It then was considered more than twice as expensive for two people to live together than to live alone.

Again in 1926 and 1928 the "small" taxpayers' interest in government was overlooked when exemptions were jacked up to $1,500 for single person, and $3,500 for a married person. Now it appears that the exemptions may slide back down again. The government's anxiety about the interest of individuals in government appears to vary in direct proportion with the needs of the treasury.

What Others Say

NEVER A PERFECT CRIME

Dr. Carleton Simen, New York criminologist and former deputy police commissioner, told the New York State Association of Chiefs of Police the other day that the "perfect crime" has never yet been executed. This is important as well as interesting, because there have been many criminals, cursed with the pride of craftsmanship, who have planned "perfect crimes" and are convinced that the scientifically "perfect crime" is entirely feasible.

The answer, as we may construct it from Dr. Simen's statement, is that perfection in the carrying out of any criminal plan is wholly visionary. The plan may be elaborated to the last intricate detail, until it seems 100 per cent proof against error or chance of detection. But apparently nature abhors perfection in anything. We readily accept the idea that the perfect man has never been produced, and it is quite as logical to assume that there has never been a perfect criminal. And if there has never been a perfect criminal, of course there can be no perfect crime.

Human nature is prone to error, and that is why the perfect crime has never been executed. Dr. Simen said that some bit of evidence always has and always will be left behind by the criminal. In charting his intricate course for the successful covering of his tracks there is invariably something that he forgets. "Life-long customs of individuals creep into their acts and every crime bears somewhere the stamp of personality left behind unknowingly by the criminal." Dr. Simen is convinced that there is tell-tale evidence even in the crimes that appear most baffling. What is required is an adequate degree of intelligence and reasoning power in detecting the clues and interpreting their significance.

For the most part we are inclined to agree with Dr. Simen in his conclusions, and there will certainly be general agreement with his statement as to the desirability of accumulating and preserving identification records. There is even something to be said for his opinion that every person, upright as well as criminal and questionable beings, should be finger-printed, with a record on file in some central identification bureau.—Providence Journal.

The Stars Say

For Thursday, October 8. Excepting that affairs are pre-arranged to be rather lively, as a rule they may be tinged by an adverse or frustrating influence from certain lunar operations. There may be a visitation of small anxieties, complications and peculiar untoward events contributing to the impeding force, reacting on or possibly being instigated by personal matters or purely private contacts. Be cautious in all.

Those whose birthday it is may not be surprised to find a year of a multiplicity of small anxieties, setbacks and worries bearing rule on a generally active state of affairs and proving a force for frustration. These may be felt in personal as well as business relations and contacts. Be alert as to deception or subtlety. A child born on this day should be keen, clever and active, but may be fated to encounter many trivial obstacles, treacheries and annoyances in life.

France Honors Air Martyrs

The bodies of Lieut. Joseph Le Brix and Rene Mesmin, French fliers, who were killed when their plane crashed in the Urals, are shown before the stately portals of historic Notre Dame Cathedral, Paris, during the imposing funeral services for the famous aviators. Standing between the caskets (with moustache) is Marcel Doret, only survivor of the crash, who made a parachute leap from the plane. The aviators were attempting a long-distance flight record between Paris and Tokyo when death overtook them.

ANOTHER CHANCE

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland,
New York City

Air Produces Sound Sleep

Inability to sleep has been one of the bothers of mankind for many centuries. This condition, called "insomnia" by the doctors, is referred to in all the ancient writings. It has been a factor in the health history of many races and nations.

Sleep is essential to the welfare of the body. The need is not alone for a sufficient number of hours of sleep, but, in order to be benefited by sleep, the sleep must be restful and uninterrupted.

Insomnia is a symptom in several diseases. There are many, many different causes for it. Indeed, it is often difficult to lay one's finger on the exact cause.

When sleeplessness is due to pain, we do not consider it as really insomnia. This is true of other conditions where, as a result of some disease in the body, the person is awakened from his slumber. Under these perfectly plain conditions, the sleeplessness is quickly overcome when the underlying disease is treated and cured.

Insomnia may be due to some intestinal disorder or to extreme nervousness. In cases of this type, it is necessary that care be taken of the diet. It is unwise to eat just before retiring.

Make sure there is plenty of ventilation in your sleeping room. It may be advisable to take a warm tub bath on retiring. Good results sometimes follow the taking of a glass of warm milk or other warm drink before bedtime. If the feet are cold when going to bed, a hot footbath or a hot water bag placed at the feet, is of great aid in combating insomnia.

Beware of Medicines

I strongly advise against the use of medication unless it is prescribed by your physician. It is true that sleep may be obtained from the taking of certain medicine. But in this way a habit may be developed and dependence must be placed on the drug.

Patients convalescing from prolonged illness are sometimes unable to sleep at night. Usually this can be explained by their drowsiness and "cat naps" during the day and at night. By regulating the hours consequently an inability to sleep easily remedied. By means of massage during the day this can be sage, too, and sponge baths, the tone of the body can be improved. After this treatment such persons are apt to adjust themselves and sleep more restfully at night.

There is no doubt that the ability to sleep is a habit. Some individuals can sleep sitting on the edge of a chair, whereas others require all the luxuries of a well-appointed home.

Answers to Health Queries

A young, expectant mother, Q—Would it be harmful for me to avoid pastries and other rich, fattening foods at this time? I have been very stout and have reduced and do not wish to put on any unnecessary weight, but at the same time I want to do what is right. I intend making my diet consist of fruits, vegetables and milk chiefly.

A—Restricting the sugars and starches should not prove harmful, but you should be careful to eat of a well-balanced diet at this particular time. For further particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Mrs. W. A. H. Q—Is it safe to use glycerine in the eye where there is a cataract? It seems to temporarily affect the vision.

A—It is never wise to treat the eyes unless such treatment has been definitely prescribed. Have your doctor advise you.

A—This may be due to a number of causes. It would be wise to have a careful examination.

A sufferer, Q—What do you advise for eczema?
A—Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for full particulars and repeat your question.

Mrs. B. R. Q—What is pyelitis? Is there a cure? Is it serious?
A—Pyelitis is an inflammation of part of the kidney. Whether or not it can be definitely cleared up depends upon the extent and seriousness of the trouble. Careful treatment will often bring about results. A kidney condition is always more or less serious, but can usually be helped by proper treatment. Have your doctor outline specific treatment and advice.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—New York, like London, is besieged by an army of curb merchants. For a time, save along the library wall on 42d st., they had almost vanished. The fresh recruits followed the apple sellers who were given the freedom of the city for a time.

They are chiefly men superior to the calling and marking time until something better turns up. The best "pitchers" are in congested districts during lunch hour and home-going rush. Any number show a pathetic nervousness and unprofessionalism.

Every imaginable gim-crack is offered—fountain pens, pencil sharpeners, neckties, socks, cigar lighters and the like. Old-timers, of course work with their cappers, but novices often just stand a little sheepishly holding out their wares.

Efforts to catch the economical eye among the seasoned sppliers are often ingenuous. Near the Flatiron building today, a well-dressed man began clapping his hands sharply and motioning passersby to stand away from a lane he had formed.

Then gravely he laid a coin on the sidewalk, walked a half dozen steps and placed another coin. By this time he had formed a hyena-like circle of curious. Picking up the coins he began his spiel with: "I'm going to show how you also can pick up money along the street."

In no time at all he was offering "fifty-cent linen handkerchiefs for a dime." "All those buying," he cried, "pick up 40 cents." The ancient prize package swindle is also revived and it is surprising how many fall for it.

Planted five dollar bills are placed in 20-cent packages of popcorn. These are sold to innocent looking shills who open them before departing and extract the prize in view of suckers. Rubes for years have been laughing at this at county fairs. But it still sticks here.

In Over-the-Rhine Cincinnati days there was a blind and forlorn street merchant who hawked patented needle threaders, demonstrating them and giving to each purchaser "an album of 200 popular songs absolutely free." He had one of those minstrel tenor voices and would collect crowds by singing such favorites as "Take Back Your Gold," "On the Banks

Miss J. A. S. Q—What will remove hair from the upper lip?
A—Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for full particulars and repeat your question.

Worried, Q—I am a young man in my "teens" and troubled with excessive perspiration. I am not inclined to be overweight but notice this disturbance in church or in any crowded place, even when others may be chilly. What would you advise?
A—This condition is frequently due to a nerve disturbance. For further particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

A. M. Q—What do you advise for falling hair?
A—What will improve the complexion?
A—Brush the hair daily and use a good stimulating tonic. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for full particulars and repeat your question.

of the Wabash" and "Under the Bamboo Tree". I often walked to his pitch near People's theater at noon to listen and frequently wondered what became of him. For some reason he stood out as a sort of hero. Several years ago I ran across him singing in a second rate saloon in old Mexico and billed as "Nugget Dan, the Blind Cripple of the Gold Fields".

I wonder if others who knew Cincinnati well have reflected upon the rhythmic roll of its street names and suburbs. No other city, to my notion, offers such a simple and beautiful diaphanous. Recall such thoroughfares as Race st., Reading rd., Government Square, People's Corner, Fountain Square, Front st., Pike st., and Rose Hill and suburbs such as Avondale, Mt. Auburn, Clifton, Walnut Hill, Price Hill, Winton Place, Norwood and Hyde Park. Its tangle of streets, incidentally, was once Longworth st.

Yet thoroughfares are beglamoured by environment, I suppose. After all there is nothing very striking about Fifth ave., as a name. But it inspires wonder wherever mentioned. For sheer dash London's street nomenclature is unexcelled. Pall Mall, for instance, and Regent st., The Strand, Oxford Circus and Piccadilly. The ugliest named section is The Bronx in New York.

The most romantically named street in the world, I think, is Shanghai's Bubbling Well Road. It suggests pale moonbeams on dipping sampan paddles, the crystal spatter of stars and softly whispered nothings. Tommy Millard tells of his first drive along it in a rich shaft. He was keyed to a charming sentimentality by the companion-ship of a equally charming lady. A long silence stole over them only broken by the lady's: "So far I haven't lapped a single chop suey joint."

From a Georgia paper: "Local beauty contest winners decided not to call on the New York columnist while there."

And all of us sitting around dressed up practically all summer.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

BY WILLIAM McLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS

Lee Reynolds is the owner of a ranch. Drought has almost ruined it. She leases a Mexican rancho and moves her starving herd there. She is barely settled when a revolution breaks out. Megares, a man of the border, is the leader. Ransome Brennan, a former foreman of Lee's, is his right hand man. Brennan was discharged by Lee and swore revenge. Lee hires a new hand, who is recognized by Dunc Daggett, an old ranch helper as Jack Hadley, a millionaire oil man of California, whose father owned a mine near Lee's ranch and was murdered by outlaws. Hadley is searching for the murderer of his father. Hadley and Lee call on Megares, who is, apparently, friendly to them. Megares calls at the ranch for dinner and is infatuated with Lee's guest, Mrs. Doris Silver. Next day while out driving Lee and her ranchers are attacked by a band of soldiers.

MEGARES AS PROTECTOR

Jack kept going and presently came to a clump of wild cherries. A minute later he was among the bowlders along the edge of the dam. "You're not hurt?" Lee asked quickly as he emerged from them above the rimrock. She was busy trying to give first aid to Stumpy. Jack examined the wound of the cowpuncher. The bullet had struck the small of the back and plowed through the vitals. Briefly Hadley outlined their plan of action. He spoke to Lee. "You and Doris must ride fast to the ranch. Get help and send it to us. You can save us if you hurry."

He lifted Doris to the saddle. "I'm afraid," she moaned. "I—I—" "Don't be a fool. I'll hold them here. Ride with Lee and you'll be all right."

Without a word Lee swung to the saddle and led the way up the opening gulch to the mesa above. Jack picked a spot for his defense where the rocks protected him, but left a loophole through which he could fire.

He did what could be done to relieve the wounded man. It was not much. To Jack it was apparent that he would not live many hours.

"Don't you worry none about me," the cowboy said. "I'll make out. You go back an' tend to those greasers." Jack returned to his post. The agitation of thick brush showed the defender where men were creeping

"Lemme help! It won't hurt me any—now."

up the gulch. He dropped a bullet into the moving foliage and the quivering of branches stopped. Stumpy had crept to the edge of the rimrock, rifle in hand.

"You lie quiet, Stumpy. I'll do this job," Jack told him.

"Lemme help. It won't hurt me any—now. I got mine."

"In much pain?"

Not so much. After a moment the wounded man plumped out a request, boyishly. "You tell Miss Lee I was game, Smith."

"Game as any one I ever knew, Stumpy," Jack fired at a man dodging across the creek into the cherries. "I'll certainly tell her, though she knows it already."

Jack was no sentimentalist, but he felt a queer little tug at his sympathies. This poor lost dog of a vaquero, who all his life had been cuffed from pillar to post, had evidently given his heart in dumb devotion to his mistress.

Bullets came pinging against the rocks, and whistled over the heads of the Americans. From somewhere in the bowlders not far below the dam a sharpshooter was sniping.

A flame seared Jack's shoulder. He had been hit. Presently a head was very cautiously lifted above an edge of outcropping quartz. Jack blazed at the forehead above the peering eyes. A body pitched into the open and somersaulted into the sharp bowlders below.

The attackers had had enough. Cautiously they gathered their casualties, crept down the canon with them and disappeared around a bend.

When Dunc Daggett and the Lazy R riders arrived thirty minutes later, guided by Lee, they found the two on the rimrock holding the battlefield alone.

Lee slipped from Nugget and ran forward to Jack. "You've been hurt," she cried.

"A flesh wound," he told her. Then, in a lower voice, "Stumpy is dying. Forget me and think of him."

Lee knelt down beside the lad. She could see he had not many minutes to live. He smiled feebly.

"Can I do anything for you, dear Stumpy?" she begged. "Anything—anything at all. Have you any father or mother?"

"I ain't got no one . . . If you'd sing for me I'd kinda ease me over the bumps." He got it out a word at a time, gasping for breath.

"Yes, What shall I sing?"

"Sing . . . The Cowboy's . . . Dream, ma'am, if—if—"

Lee sang to him, her arm under his head, her face close to his so that as he slipped away he might hear.

She stooped and kissed him. A smile, happy as that of a pleased child, lit his pale face. The body stiffened and then relaxed, sinking down.

Megares smiled at Lee with all the benevolence of the cat which has swallowed the canary.

"I am desolated to learn of the atrocious attack upon you by murderous bandits. After our cause has triumphed it shall be my pleasure to rid the country of such vermin. Meanwhile, dear lady, I must protect you. By the way, how is Senor Hadley?"

"Doing very nicely. He is up and about, though we think he should remain quiet and rest."

"I shudder to think of what might have happened to you. I shall establish a headquarters here, as well as at Palo Duro."

"But is it necessary that we should trouble you so, General?" Lee protested. "Now that we are warned we can look after ourselves. We shall stay close to the rancho in the future."

"It is decided. If any evil should befall you or Mrs. Silver I would not only be grieved myself beyond measure, but I would be held responsible by your government. So I forestall this evil. From today I am a guest of the rancho. Let me hope a welcome one."

He knew how welcome he was and he let his appreciation of it show in his grin. Whether he wanted him or not was the least of his worries.

Megares was usually away during the day. He rose early, breakfasted alone, and drove to Palo Duro. Hadley gathered from what he could pick up that the rebellion was not making headway. Locally the revolutionists were in control, but their numbers were not increasing fast and the forces of the government were being consolidated for a decisive campaign.

Megares' intentions regarding Doris he scarcely took the trouble to veil. There was a feline streak in the man. He had jumped to the conclusion that Hadley was in love with Mrs. Silver and he took delight in making love to her before the younger man. Somehow he had learned of Brennan's feeling toward her and he brought Ransome out to the rancho several times for the pleasure of seeing the man's curbed rage when he purred over her.

It did not take Lee long to discover her status in the house. She and Hadley were stopped by a guard as they were starting for the corral where the Lazy R riders were calf branding.

In Spanish Hadley asked the man by whose orders they were detained. He learned that the general had given instructions.

"He's drawing the net closer," Hadley commented to Lee when they were alone.

"What are we to do, Jack?" she asked.

"There's one thing we could do . . . maybe, if we got the breaks. Slip away—the three of us and your riders—and push for the north."

At dinner that night Lee asked Megares if they were prisoners.

"But no, dear lady, why do you ask?" the general replied.

"One of the men you left wouldn't let me and Mr. Hadley out to check the calf branding. He said you gave him orders we were to stay inside."

Megares appeared to be distressed at this interpretation of the incident. "Absurd, Miss Reynolds. You are my charming hostess and I am your indebted guest. But you are too daring. I must protect you against these assassin guerrillas. You are safer at home."

The general had brought Brennan to dinner with him. The big man laughed unpleasantly. Megares glared at him.

Her nerves a bit on edge, Doris made petulant complaint. "Good gracious, what's the matter with everybody? I haven't seen a real smile or heard a laugh for a week. I wish you'd take your old revolution off somewhere and bury it, General."

"If you would help me to forget it, lovely lady, I would be enchanted." He leaned across the table at her and spoke in a strange whisper. "I will walk with you in the patio after dinner and discuss that chiquita, if you will so far honor a rough soldier."

It was while he and Doris were smoking together in the patio that Lee approached Brennan.

"Why did you laugh when Gen. Megares said he must protect us from the guerrillas?" she asked.

"Wash One Another's Feet"

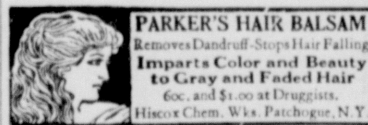

Obedient literally the injunction of the Saviour when He said, "If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet, ye also ought to wash one another's feet." these simple, pious folk of the little village of Mayking, in the Kentucky hills, proceed to hold their annual foot-washing ceremony. This ritual and that of communion have been practiced almost since the founding of the church (Thornton Baptist Church) about 1800. Here several women are shown practicing the act of humiliation.

Very often there is a high narrow space not big enough to accommodate any piece of furniture. Such narrow spaces fitted with shelves can be extremely useful, for books, for decorative bits of china, or, if near the entry, for a built-in umbrella rack. In the bedroom the narrow high space is just the thing for a shoe closet. This is merely a series of sloping shelves with a ridge in the middle which catches the heel and holds shoes in place. Shoe closets can be purchased, but if there's an odd space in the home—and also a fairly good amateur carpenter—it's a simple enough piece to make.

One or two shelves built in small left-over space may be just the thing to hold extra books, or toys, or sewing equipment, or any of the little odds and ends that might otherwise clutter living or bedroom. Narrow shelves under windows, especially in the children's room, are worth building, if only for their automatic aid in encouraging neatness.

Thwarting the Ashflicker

"Why is it that with a perfectly good ashtray four inches from his elbow, Dick will insist on flicking ashes on the floor?" wails Dot, viewing with dismay the numerous little black circles on her one-piece rug.

"And don't say it's thoughtlessness, either," she pursued. "Why, I've seen some of our friends walk carefully from a standing ash-receiver to the clean-swept, unused fireplace and throw burning bits of cigars and cigarettes into the spotless hearth. I've talked about it, and joked about it, and it doesn't do the least bit of good, so I suppose I'll have to get used to cigarette holes for the sake of peace."

Many housekeepers have the same complaint against smokers. But the smokers have their argument, too.

"So sorry, I hope I haven't hurt your rug," says the polite guest, having tipped the ashtray inadvertently. But, aside he murmurs, "What on earth can she expect—furnishing pin trays for ashes, instead of a man-size ashtray?"

That seems to be the seat of the trouble—inadequate size. Not to mention insufficient quantity. Delicate little trays of glass and silver are good enough for the very temperate smokers, those amateurs who smoke one or two cigarettes during a call. But for the diligent, persistent ones—who happen to be in the majority—something more robust is needed. Let the ashtrays be of goodly size. Bowls of pleasing proportions but big enough to command attention. And they should be numerous. After practically stumbling over a few husky ashtrays, the smoker's progress toward the clean fireplace will be mercifully interrupted. And at cards, not one ash-tray for all, but a little tray fastened at each corner for the individual, will do a lot toward concentrating ashes neatly where they belong.

ELM IS PLANTED BY CLUB WOMEN

Ceremony Is Feature of Middle East District Convention; Talks Are Given

A tree planting "ceremony" was an outstanding feature of the Tuesday afternoon session of the conference of the middle east district, Ohio Federation of Women's clubs.

The president of the Ohio Federation, Mrs. W. H. Schwartz, Portsmouth, has asked each district to plant a tree in honor of the Washington bicentennial celebration, which will be held next year.

The tree, an American elm, was planted on the public library grounds.

Mrs. Karl L. Rothermund of Columbus, president of the middle east district, made the presentation, H. H. Sharp of the library board, accepted it. The board was represented by Sharp, Mrs. W. H. Dunn and Mrs. F. J. Emeny.

Mrs. K. L. Rothermund gave the charge to Salem's campfire girls, who are to have the care of the tree. Mrs. R. E. Snucker accepted the senior guardianship, after which the girls gave their oath.

A quartet composed of Mrs. L. D. Cessa, Mrs. C. M. Leasure, Mrs. A. B. Hobson and Mrs. L. W. King, sang "Trees." The ceremonies concluded with the singing of "America."

and bankers for further conference at the White House.

He won approval for his immediate relief program last night amid a setting character of which has been seldom seen in America.

Propose Federal Agency

This unusual grouping of the legislative and administrative branches of the government in a common cause agreed to support, in addition to the three major points, appointment of regional bankers committees to aid generally in credit expansion, liquidation of some of the frozen assets of insolvent banks, and other institutions; and, if necessary, creation of a government agency similar to the old war finance corporation which operated during the emergency period to encourage domestic industry.

At the door of his study—in the room where Abraham Lincoln signed the emancipation proclamation—Mr. Hoover quietly received the 32 senators and representatives whom he had summoned. Most of them serve on committees dealing with the questions involved.

About the President were four of his own administrative advisers. They were Secretary Mellon, Undersecretary Mills of the treasury, Governor Meyer of the federal reserve board, and Walter Newton, one of his secretaries.

As the president completed reading deliberately his prepared proposals, debate broke out over the proposed discussion of the moratorium with Premier Laval. It was challenged by Chairman Borah, and Rep. Garner, Democratic house leader.

When the debate, with bitterness lacking and humor occasionally injecting itself into the serious discussions, ranged to the economic proposals party lines were dissipated. Democrat challenged Democrat and members of the chief executives' own party asked for further details upon the ramifications of the proposals.

Now Under Consideration

Senator Glass, of Virginia, a former Democratic secretary of the treasury, recalled that suggestions that the reserve system be permitted to expand the base of discountable securities were now under consideration by the senate banking committee.

Support from both parties came to Rep. Luce of Massachusetts, in his insistence that the group similar to the war finance corporation be set up only if "necessary."

As the debate spread, President Hoover was joined by Secretary Mellon and his other personal advisers in meeting questions with which they were familiar.

For the private corporation which will raise $500,000,000 to aid banks that have closed their doors, the president said $150,000,000 had been subscribed within the last few days by the New York City Clearing House association.

Asks Banks' Support

"I have been assured from other large centers," Mr. Hoover said, "as far as I have been able to reach, of their support also. I consider that it is in the national interest, including the interest of all individual bankers and depositors that all the banks of the country should support this movement to their full responsibility. It is a movement of national assurance and of unity of action in an American way to assist business, employment and agriculture."

The chief executive said he had last month requested the governors of the Federal Reserve banks to secure the cooperation of bankers in their territory to make some advances on the security of the assets of closed banks. He sought to have these institutions take over

JURY DISMISSED IN DAMAGE SUIT

Adjustment Looms In Action Filed By Charles Doll Against Chester Reesh In County Court

LISBON, Oct. 7.—After a jury has been impaneled and taken to view the scene of an accident referred to in the damage action filed by Charles Doll as administrator of the estate of Glenn C. Doll, deceased against Chester Reesh, and several witnesses examined, the jury was dismissed, and the case passed by Judge W. F. Lenes.

Doll was represented by Attorney John E. Bauknecht, while former Judge Barnum of Youngstown and L. P. Metzger of Salem represented the defendant.

After some testimony had been taken, counsel sought the deposition of some who knew about the accident in which a son of the plaintiff was killed. It is likely the case will be adjusted without further jury trial.

CAPONE ON TRIAL ON INCOME TAX COUNT

One of the most significant court proceedings of the prohibition era in America got under way in Chicago as Al Capone, notorious gang lord, went to trial charged by the government with violating the income tax law. to carry frozen assets and securities, perhaps extending some relief to real estate mortgages.

This would be no more than extending the financial power of the federal reserve, which was intended for emergencies and has failed to live up to its reputation, because it lacks flexibility.

"Hoarding currency" and some hoarding gold, cause uneasiness. A certain percentage of the public, ill-informed, frightened by false rumors' exaggerated the situation.

Why not reassure all by making the postal savings bank a real bank on a big scale instead of the mere pretense?

If the government can afford to borrow $300,000,000 at 3 per cent, for a considerable number of years, it can afford to pay depositors in postal savings banks 2 per cent, letting citizens draw out their money on a week's notice, paying them interest all the time. How many millions would go into the postal savings bank, if access, deposits and withdrawals were made convenient? Deposits under proper any to take the territory. Accordingly Japan orders her fighting squadrons kept in readiness. British and United States authorities discuss the meaning of this order, but won't do anything about it.

While Japan confines her enlargements to Asia, there can be no objection. It makes no difference to us which Asiatic race owns Asia, although we should deplore any injustice to our good Chinese friends.

China through the centuries has become accustomed to conquest and strange rulers. Whatever Japan may do in China, they will be gentler than was Genghis Khan and his three sons, who overran China with greatest ease, sending word to the unfortunate enemy, "by the decree of heaven you are now as weak as I am strong."

Thanks to civil wars in China, Japan's Mikado may also say to China "you are now as weak as I am strong."

For the first time yesterday Thomas A. Edison's doctors have admitted the real and very sad condition of their patient. Mr. Edison, only semi-conscious, is sinking slowly, surely. Doctors report that his death is but a matter of a few days. Mr. Edison of course knows it and you may be sure that he does not worry. He is not concerned about what happens hereafter to one who has done his best here.

Cleveland Banks Estimate Share

Cleveland, Oct. 7. — Cleveland banks will be called upon to provide between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 under the Hoover plan to release frozen assets and stimulate buying, bankers here estimated today.

This is approximately 1 per cent of the combined time and savings deposits, they said.

Rollin A. Wilbur, Cleveland banker appointed to take charge of closed Toledo banks, said the move will "be of the very greatest help in the work of rehabilitation of this financial situation in Toledo," where he said, "Financial assistance just now is very much needed and seemingly utterly unavailable at the moment."

THEY'RE Milder. The best Turkish and Domestic tobacco that money can buy is put into Chesterfield. Chesterfield tobacco is the finest-textured, the smoothest and ripest that grows—ripened and sweetened in the sunshine, cured right by the farmer and aged right for two years in wooden hogsheads. Mellow—and wonderfully mild!

THEY TASTE BETTER. These mild, smooth tobaccos are put together exactly right. The aroma of Turkish, the mellow sweetness of Domestic—blended and cross-blended. How it's done is Chesterfield's secret—but millions know how much better it tastes!

THEY'RE PURE. Everything that goes into Chesterfield is tested by expert chemists. The purest, finest cigarette paper made; a clean, tight-sealed package. "Pure as the water you drink."

THEY SATISFY. The package... neat, clean. The cigarettes... well-filled. The paper... pure white. And with your very first puff, you notice they taste better. Pleasing and satisfying—Chesterfields just seem to suit you, right down to the ground.

Four hits—four good things about every Chesterfield cigarette. Remember: They are Milder—Taste Better—Pure—Satisfy.

Earnshaw Comes Through For Mack To Even Series Fight

INELIGIBILITY HITS SALEM SQUAD; BULLDOGS TO FACE RAVENNA

Cardinals Blanked by Two-Hit Masterpiece; Martin Shines Again

BY EDWARD J. NEIL

Associated Press Sports Writer.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—"Big Jarge" Earnshaw, one of the greatest pitchers ever to tread a world series mound had brought the smile back today to the face of an aged gentleman pointing toward his third consecutive championship of the world.

The old gentleman was Connie Mack, pilot of the world champion Athletics, and as he sat in his office today, pondering his pitching selection for the fifth game of the world series with the St. Louis Cardinals, there was nothing but joy shining out through every wrinkle in his 68-year old face.

Great Slab Performance

Stepping into the breach where the mighty Robert Moses Grove had failed, Earnshaw turned in one of the world series masterpieces of all time yesterday to riddle the National league champions with his fast ball, baffle them with his curves, humiliate them with his control, and swing the Athletics back from abyss of almost certain defeat to an even footing again with the Cardinals. They have two victories apiece after the first four games of one of the most sensational world series of all times.

It was do or die day for the mighty Athletics yesterday.

It was a day when the Athletics, thirsting for three straight world championships, if only to answer the prayer of a grand old man seeking his last baseball record, suddenly found themselves, the first American champions to trail the National league rulers in five years, struggling on the brink of world series catastrophe. They talked the situation over among themselves, they listened to Connie's plea, watched the lanky old fellow with the thin esthetic face of a priest tap Earnshaw on the shoulder and say:

"George, you've got to do it for me, just this one thing."

Then they went out to tackle the Cardinals in the fourth game of the series, the second at Shibe park, and the next to the last effort they could make if the riotous Cardinals, riding the high wave of two of the finest pitching efforts any pair of world series hurlers ever put together, kept up the amazing form over-whelming drive to victory.

Find Batting Eyes

They came grimly, defiantly, and the manner in which they ripped into Sylvester Johnson, Cardinal hurler, Jimmy Fox hit a tremendous home run, Simmons, Dykes, Bishop and Miller all got the range as the A's emerged from their slump.

Leading the comeback surge, magnificent in his power, was Earnshaw as he turned back all but one of the Cardinals John "Pepper" Martin, while the big gunners of Connie's crew, finding the range at last against the pitching of Sergeant Gabby Street's second stringers, batted out a 3 to 0 victory.

Earnshaw, pitched perhaps the greatest game in any world series history, mowing the Cardinals down to add another two-hit classic to a string of pitching performances that knows no equal in past series history.

There was only one fly in his ointment, the chunky dogged figure of Martin, freshman outfielder who is playing this series for the Cardinals, his first in major league baseball, as no rookie ever has before him. Just as Earnshaw, inspired with a new zeal for victory, love for his aged benefactor, Connie Mack, was pitching the greatest game of his career, so was the grim, hawkfaced youngster from the wide open stretches of Oklahoma battling eagerly and fearlessly for his own private fettle.

Veterans Held Helpless

While the veterans of the Cardinal clouters, the league champion Chick Hafey and his rival Sunny Jim Bottomley, were vainly poking at Earnshaw's dazzling speed and uncanny curves, lofting them feebly into the air or peling them vainly through the dirt to the infielders, "Pepper" took his cut freely and wholeheartedly and smacked "Big Jarge" for two hits, the entire Cardinal quota. He singled in the fifth and after getting the entire A's defense on edge easily stole second base, his fourth theft of the series, to come up after a headlong dive into the bag covered with dirt, grinning.

That blow ended Earnshaw's chances for a no-hit game but he still had an opportunity to escape home under the two-hit figure Burleigh Grimes set yesterday, until "Pepper" strode to the plate to start the eighth with a double.

All the strategy that the sideline critics could muster in the face of the silence of both Connie Mack and Gabby Street indicated that a left hand pitching duel today between "Rube" Walberg, or even Lefty Grove, the battered master, for the Athletics, and Bill Hallahan for the Cards in the last of the three games here. Regardless of the outcome today the scene shifts back to St. Louis again tonight for many of the final two games as are necessary to give one club four victories and the championship. The sixth, and seventh game, if necessary, are scheduled for Friday and Saturday on the bank of the Mississippi.

Wabash will play Miami at Oxford and Depauw will meet Cincinnati.

NAVY MAY MEET ARMY IN BATTLE ON DECEMBER 12

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Annaphis and West Point have tentatively agreed to play a post-season football game for charity.

The proceeds of the game will be used for unemployment relief. The probable date is Dec. 12.

The game will be played somewhere in the east. The Navy has put forward Philadelphia as a possible city.

More extensive seating arrangements at the New York Polo field may result in the game being played there, however.

Rear Admiral William C. Hart, superintendent of the Naval Academy, discussed the proposed game with West Point representatives and later with Secretary Adams and naval officials.

Definite arrangements for the game are expected within a few days.

Tech Faces Georgia

PITTSBURGH—Carnegie Tech's football squad will probably be in far better shape for the game next Saturday with Georgia Tech than it was for the losing battle with W. & J. on October 3. Each day sees a boy returned from the hospital list to active duty, and it is hardly likely that there will be a recurrence of last Saturday's crisis, when not a substitute guard or tackle was available on the bench, and the starting halfbacks also had to play throughout the contest.

MOUNT BATTLES MUSKINGUM IN NIGHT CONTEST

Alliance College to Hold Homecoming Program At Stadium Friday

ALLIANCE, Oct. 7.—One of Mount Union's leading gridiron foes, Muskingum college, will help the Alliance collegians observe their annual homecoming at Mount stadium, Friday night.

While defeat at the hands of Bowling Green last Saturday should strengthen the Purple warriors by lessening over confidence, coaches realize they have a hard week's work to prepare for the smoothe Muskingum team.

Shows Strength Saturday

The Mount machine demonstrated its ability to match in the last few minutes of Saturday's game but was slow in getting started. The battle was the first real test of strength of Thorpe. They will be prepared for heavy fighting since Mount has suffered defeat the past two years from the New Concord school.

Two years ago the game here was surprise since Mount had not met Muskingum since 1915. Last year Mount had several stars on the injured list. Grimes and Swope should be in first class shape by Friday night as all the other members. Check-ups in weak spots both on the line and backfield was started tonight when definite measures were taken to remedy weaknesses that permitted last week's scoring.

Two Bands Will Play

The American Legion drum corps and the Alliance City band will be present to help Mount Union college celebrate homecoming Friday evening in one of the biggest games of the season. The 40 piece Alliance band will give a half hour concert before the game which scheduled for 7:30. The drum corps will perform between halves.

Rochester Takes Lead In Series

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 7.—A single victory stood between Rochester and their second successive "little world series" championship today.

The International league champions, led by Billy Southworth, gained a commanding lead of four games to one by turning back St. Paul, American Association titleholders, yesterday, 4 to 3.

St. Paul now is faced with the almost impossible task of winning all four remaining games. Another victory for Rochester automatically will end the series.

Hard Knocks Pave Road to Success

Here's a remarkable picture showing Captain Armentrout, of the Carnegie Tech football team, rolling across the goal line to score his team's only touchdown during their game with Washington and Jefferson at Pittsburgh. The safety man of W. and J. is shown spinning through the atmosphere something like a jackrabbit after his unsuccessful effort to halt Armentrout. W. and J. won, 10-7.

WHITE SOX WIN CHICAGO TITLE

Al Thomas Holds Cubs To Four Hits; Big Rally In 4th Licks Rivals

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—Donnie Bush and his luckless White Sox, who were kicked around unmercifully by the American league clubs last season, had their big day at last today.

They were Chicago city champions for the first time in five years, their pockets were lined with the big end of the players' purse, and they had a big time joshing Cub followers by wishing they played in the National league instead of the American.

Bush had something more to be happy about as it was generally believed he might after all be rehired as manager of the team for 1932.

A noisy six run rally in the fourth inning, backed by Al Thomas' four-hit pitching, gave the White Sox a 7 to 2 victory in the seventh and final game of the long series at Wrigley field yesterday.

Fans Boo Leonard In Kayo Victory

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Benny Leonard has started his comeback campaign with a knockout victory over Pat Silvers of Brooklyn with the jeers of a crowd of 15,000 as the principal accompaniment.

Leonard floored Silvers in the second round of their ten round bout last night and Silvers stayed down for the full count although most experts thought the blows were anything but hard. At the count of ten, Silvers bounced to his feet, apparently unhurt and ready to continue. Referee Arthur Donovan waved him to his corner and lifted Leonard's hand as the winner.

Benny, a bit plump around the waistline, showed the effects of his seven-year layoff from the ring.

STOCKBRIDGE, Wis.—A "rock" which has stood for more than 45 years on the lawn of George Heller's farm is believed to be a meteorite worth $1,000 or more.

French, Early May not Play Friday; Bantam Clash Here Thursday

Salem's two representatives in gridiron warfare, Coach Floyd Stone's high school eleven and E. C. Sherrin's Bulldogs, swing into action in a pair of important contests this week, the Quakers being billed to face their tradition Warren foe at Warren Friday night while the midgeits battle Ravenna bantams at Reilly athletic stadium Thursday night.

Already handicapped by the lack of veteran football material, the Quaker varsity was further weakened today through the absence of two regulars, John French and Norman Early, who, because of scholastic difficulties, have been declared ineligible and in all probability will not be available for the Warren clash. Neither player participated in practice sessions at Reilly stadium Tuesday.

French May Play Friday

There is a slight possibility that French will play against Warren but it was announced at yesterday's workouts that Early will be forced from the squad for at least a week. French is the team's regular full-back while Early has been playing tackle on the varsity.

Changes were numerous in the makeup of the teams tutored by Stone and Franklin Lewis as a result of the absence of the regulars. One other varsity performer, Merle Whitcomb, was unable to practice because of neck and back injuries but Stone appeared certain that the stock guard will be in condition for this week's struggle.

Here is the way Stone lined his teams up for workouts:

"A" Squad	Pos.	"B" Squad
P. Siding	LE	Greenisen
Fisher	LT	Snyder
W. Siding	LG	Alexander
Corso	C	Seullion
Pukalski	RG	Crowl
Battin	RT	Raymond
Erwin Beck	RE	Stratton
Ed Beck	Q	W. Papih
Keyes	LH	Borrelli
Russell	RH	A. Papih
Carpenter	F	Reich

Keyes Shifted To Half

French's ineligibility gave Stone added problems to face, Keyes being shifted to a halfback along with Wayne Russell who has shown marked ability at line plunging. Reich showed promise as a ballcarrier and was given a chance on the first squad when he replaced Carpenter at fullback. Other changes were also made during the course of the practice.

From all indications at the practice session it will not be the line that will be Stone's big problem. Moreover, it is the backfield where the many changes are making it almost impossible to work out an offensive combination that proves satisfactory. There's plenty of uncertainty and pessimism in the Salem High camp.

Bantams Expect to Win

Sherrin's bantams expect to eke out their first victory of the Ohio Bantamweight Football association campaign against the Ravenna team here Thursday. A percentage of the proceeds will again be contributed to the Salem public school milk fund.

Defeated 39-0 by the Kent Bearcats, the Salem youngsters are far from down hearted. Rather the setback did them plenty of good, gave them much needed experience against a classy aggregation that's one of the best in the country and showed up weak spots that the coaches have been attempting the strength in the past week.

Plenty of fans should attend the contest. Prices will be cut to 25 cents for grownups and a dime for the kiddies.

KEEP KISSABLE

WITH OLD GOLDS

Charming women are first won by OLD GOLDS' appealing taste. But their enthusiasm doubles when they find that OLD GOLDS do not taint the breath or mar the whiteness of pearly teeth.

That's because OLD GOLD is a pure tobacco cigarette. Made from the finest nature-flavored tobaccos. So good, it needs no added flavoring.

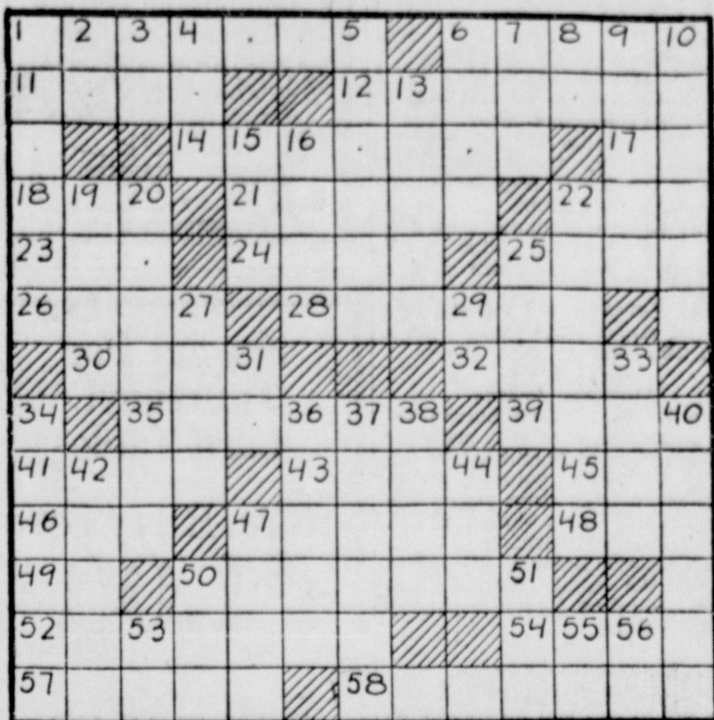

It's "foreign flavoring", not good tobacco, that leaves unwanted after-maths. Play safe. Smoke pure-tobacco OLD GOLDS. They leave nothing behind but pleasant recollections.

"MONKEY BUSINESS," the third of the four Marx brother comedies is at the State today.

On a transatlantic liner bound for New York the second mate discovers that there are four stowaways on board. Yes, the stowaways are your old playmates, Groucho, Harpo, Chico and Zeppo. To elude pursuit they hide in the captain's cabin. Groucho poses as the captain, runs the ship and eats the captain's breakfast. Then threatens to put the captain in irons as a stowaway.

Harpo again plays the harp in "Monkey Business." Chico plays the piano—and Groucho and Zeppo more than do their bit by playing up to every pretty girl they meet in the action of the picture.

"WICKED," starring Elissa Landi, brilliant star, is the Grand attraction today and Thursday.

In "Wicked," Theodore Von Eltz plays Miss Landi's newly married young husband, and deceives her into believing he is a bank clerk, whereas he is really a bank robber. In her efforts to protect him, Miss Landi runs afoul of the law and it is only the interference of Victor McLaglen in the leading male role which saves her from serious consequences.

In addition to McLaglen and Von Eltz, Miss Landi's supporting cast includes Una Merkel, Allan Dinehart, Mae Busch, Irene Rich, Alice Lake, Oscar Apfel and Eileen Percy. Allan Dwan directed the production.
